On the spot: Newsquest's Gary Kendall during the awards' launch

Proud of the recognition we got

Last year's winners
Winner – Hanover IT
James Burdis, co-founder of Hanover Recruitment, said of the award win: "Receiving the award for training and development was a great moment and I'm really proud of those who took part in the application. We've invested a lot of time, energy and money into the development of our team over the years and it's really nice to be recognised for that."

Highly commended – RCabs
Commended – RACC

'Skills shortage as the economy grows'

Sponsor: Hays

Best training and development

Richmond is an exciting marketplace, but economic challenges have caused skill shortages, which in turn has created a higher demand for employees with a specific skill set. Organisations when recruiting are looking for sector experience and qualifications, which mean it can be tough for businesses and candidates.

Being based in Richmond enables us to meet local candidates, but also with excellent transport links to central London and surrounding areas enables us to generate good-quality candidates to organisations looking for very specific types of employee. Our national network and presence on Linkedin enables us to help find the right candidates.

We have been based in Richmond for many years now and look forward to working closer with the business community.

We have specific specialist consultants covering individual disciplines such as: senior finance, accountancy and finance, credit management, office support, trades and labour, HR and procurement for both temporary and permanent roles.

Part of the service we provide is developing an understanding of each organisation, sector, local market, culture and corporate values.

Our approach, together with an in-depth market knowledge of specialisms, allows us to manage the recruitment process from start to finish.

We are proud to sponsor the training and development award, as training and development is crucial for the success of local businesses and the local employment market.

Having been part of the Richmond community for many years, these awards are a way of reaching out to successful local businesses and building lasting relationships.

FIND THE RIGHT STAFF
TRANSFORM YOUR ORGANISATION

Last year, we helped organisations across Richmond, Twickenham and Kew find the right person for their business.

Our teams of specialist consultants are supported by an extensive global network. Using their local market knowledge and strong industry relationships, such as sponsorship of the Richmond Business Awards, to help identify top talent in a wide range of specialist markets.

That's why organisations of all types and sizes trust us to find people who can help transform their business.

So, whether you want a CFO in Richmond, a HR manager in Teddington, a PA in Twickenham or an credit controller in Kew, we have the breadth of coverage and the depth of understanding to help you find them.
