Richmond upon Thames College (RuTC) is a college of general further and higher education providing education and training, including apprenticeships, to 16 to 18-year-olds and adults from across Richmond, London, Surrey and Berkshire.

The college is one of London's best colleges offering a wide range of technical, academic and professional qualifications for the 16 to 18-year-old and adult markets – it is a college for careers and business providing access to school leavers, adults and employers.

The college offers a wide range of study and training programmes including apprenticeships, higher education and access courses, A-levels, BTECs and professional qualifications.

It has recently expanded the number of apprenticeship pathways and professional qualifications it offers and works closely with many large, medium and small-sized companies in London and Surrey to help them recruit suitable apprentices and ultimately improve their business performance.

The college also helps employers with upskilling their workforces and their staff training programmes.

RuTC's purpose is to drive aspiration, ambition and achievement and to help all learners achieve their goals.

By working closely with employers, learners benefit from life changing opportunities that enhance their careers through inspired provision and a commitment to the college's community values of mutual respect, honest, integrity and personal accountability.

Over the next few months, the college will embark on an ambitious redevelopment project of its existing site in Egerton Road, Twickenham.

This redevelopment project will include new college buildings, a new secondary school, purpose-built accommodation for Clarendon School and Haymarket's new "tech hub" and digital media incubator.

Innovative design of teaching and learning spaces allied with the latest in curriculum content and delivery will enable all learners to maximise their potential and contribute fully in the workplace.

In addition, the campus will deliver real benefits to the wider community who will be able to take advantage of many of the new facilities including a state of the art gym, an art gallery for local artists and photographers to exhibit their work, a silver service training restaurant, two all-weather playing fields and a business start-up lounge.

The future is looking very exciting for Richmond upon Thames College and to strengthen its commitment to working with businesses and supporting the local community, this year, the college is proud to be involved with the prestigious Richmond Business Awards by sponsoring the award for best Business professional practice.
