

Richmond Business Awards 2016

'It's a no brainer to enter'

RICHMOND Chamber of Commerce launched its Business Awards Party on Thursday evening, hosted by headline sponsor St Mary's University.

The 2016 Business Awards year culminates in a black tie dinner at Twickenham Stadium on Friday, November 4.

Among the guests at the launch were Twickenham MP Tania Mathias, chamber chief executive Anne Newton, and Tony Portelli, managing director of Newsquest South London, which owns this newspaper.

Mr Portelli said: "A wonderful evening to launch this year's Business Awards held in truly marvellous surroundings.

"It was inspirational to hear of the success and new opportunities that previous year's winners have created due to the kudos of being a winner at the Richmond Business Awards.

"I would urge all local businesses big or small to enter as many categories as possible this year."

Ms Newton said she was delighted with how the events brought together the borough's thriving business community.

She said: "With so many award winners there from previous years, the message was loud and clear.

"It really is a no brainer to enter."
