

SUPER SUNDAY

Where to watch the big game

BY HILARY SHEINBAUM
Special to amNewYork

Super Bowl Sunday is almost upon us. If you aren't flying to Arizona or preparing tailgate snacks and sips at home, pop by these parties to eat, drink and celebrate while watching the Patriots and Seahawks square off.

FREE FOR ALL

Carnegie Club

For the more sophisticated football crowd, watch the game on one of three large-screen plasma TVs in this swanky setting while enjoying a cocktail, cigar and complimentary heroes and snacks. Reservations are recommended but not required. 156 W. 56th St., 212-957-9676

The Meatball Shop Chelsea

Football and meatball fans unite! During the first quarter, mini Buffalo chicken balls will be served gratis. Throughout the night,

Dig in to the Meatball Shop Chelsea's mini Buffalo chicken balls.

$4 PBRs will be offered alongside the regular menu, as the game plays on the big screen in the casual atmosphere. 200 Ninth Ave., 212-257-4363

SUPER BOWL FEASTS

Louro

Pick your plate while cheering on the players at the restaurant's Super Bowl party. Dishes including Brady's Sausage Rolls with clam chowder (featuring Italian sausage topped with an intense clam sauce) and Wilson's Signature Seattle Morning Start (coffee-cured, thin-sliced salmon with cream cheese and bagel crisps) will be served on game day, alongside unlimited tailgate treats such as hot wings, nachos and pork belly sliders. $75/person; 142 W. 10th St., 212-206-0606

The Chester Midtown

The new three-level bar, eatery and terrace is showing the game for free, but if you're feeling super hungry, $50 will get you an all-you-can-eat special, with burgers, salad, wings, veggie sandwiches and drinks on the menu. After the game, a DJ will spin upbeat dance music. Time to perfect that touchdown dance! 45 E. 33rd St., 212-201-1228

Edi and the Wolf

Michelin-starred chefs Eduard Frauneder and Wolfgang Ban offer a special menu of Austrian-inspired game-day eats, including the schnitzel burger with avocado and roasted tomato, Austrian-style chicken wings and pork belly sliders with sauerkraut relish and bacon aioli, while projecting the game on a 110-inch screen. 102 Avenue C, 212-598-1040

SUPER BOWL AFTER-PARTIES

Louie and Chan

Downstairs in the dark and intimate lounge, large parties can reserve booths for the Super Bowl starting at 6 p.m., but standing room is also available with no entry cost to watch the game on the 10-foot screen. Bites include truffled Parmesan fries, shishito peppers and sweet coconut curry-spiced wings.

Louro's special Super Bowl feast includes sliders.

After the game, stick around for the restaurant's regular Sunday night "Hot Steppers" party, with reggae and Caribbean music. 303 Broome St., 212-837-2816

Bounce Sporting Club

For a sports bar and nightlife atmosphere rolled into one, head to the club's Sunday Friday party. Nom on Buffalo wings, truffle mushroom flatbreads and burgers, sip on specialty drinks, including New England Sours and Seattle Brew Crews, and stick around for the after-party, featuring a VIP DJ, go-go dancers and complimentary massages. Reservations highly recommended. Doors open at 2 p.m. 55 W. 21st St., 212-675-8007

GAMES FOR THE GAME

Paulaner

Get in on the competition at this Bavarian restaurant, with beer pong and other games on tap from 4-6 p.m. (winner buys next round) before the game kicks off on the big screen. Specials including spicy chicken wings, burgers and fried meatballs. Entry is free to all. 265 Bowery, 212-780-0300

The Standard Biergarten

Even if your team is losing, there's a chance to win prizes every quar-

Enjoy margaritas at Rocco's Tacos & Tequila Bar this Super Bowl Sunday.

ROCCO'S TACOS & TEQUILA BAR

GAME-DAY DEALS

Here's where to score big deals and watch the game:

Leave Rochelle Out of It:

Starting at 5 p.m., get six-can buckets of Budweiser for $20 (regularly $30), Stella Drafts for $6 (regularly $7) and a basket of whiskey wings for $24 (regularly $28) until close. 205 Chrystie St., 212-673-2400, rochellesnyc.com

Cooper's Craft & Kitchen:

Get four-can buckets of Evil Twin's Molotov Lite, a 8.5% double IPA brewed with orange puree and mango puree, for $30 (regularly $36) and single cans for $8 (regularly $9) at the gastropub. 169 Eighth Ave., 646-661-7711; 87 Second Ave., 646-606-2384, coopersnyc.com

Rocco's Tacos & Tequila Bar:

At the vibrant Mexican eatery, draft beers are $3 (regularly $5.25), house margaritas are $5 (regularly $9.50-$12.50) and house margarita pitchers are $15

(regularly $23) during the game. 339 Adams St., Downtown Brooklyn, 718-246-8226, roccostacos.com

Brazilia Café: During the game, enjoy unlimited wings, pulled pork or braised beef sliders, along with potato salad and chips ($20), while draft beers will be $4 (regularly $8) and six-bottle buckets of Corona for $15. 684 Broadway, 646-852-6348, braziliacafe.com

DBGB Kitchen and Bar: Get any hot dog and any beer for $10 while watching the game on a 106-inch screen. 299 Bowery, 212-933-5300, dbgbc.com

Vinus and Marc: Get unlimited "game platters," including ribs, wings, calamari and truffle-infused fries, for $30 per person starting at 6 p.m. and throughout the game. Canned beers and well drinks will also be $6 all night. 1825 Second Ave., 646-692-9105, vinusandmarc.com

(HILARY SHEINBAUM)

Feast at Brazilia Café this Super Bowl Sunday.

BRAZILIA CAFE

ter a this High Line bar. Food and beverage table packages are available for up to eight people (starting at $900), with beer and tailgate favorites such as nachos, wings and hot dogs included. Watching the game on the jumbo screen is free to all. The festivities kick off at 5 p.m. 848 Washington St., 212-645-4100

EXTRA Find even more places to watch the Super Bowl in NYC: amNY.com/eat

Chow down at Bavarian restaurant Paulaner.

PAULANER